

Plant Recommendations for the Deer Infested Garden - 2012

The following list of plant material was developed over the past 21 years. This list of rarely eaten plants is based on observations of whitetail deer browsing plant material during the growing season at the historical gardens of Mohonk Mountain House, New Paltz, NY. For more information call (845) 256-2021 or email twright@mohonk.com.

Some of our gardens are fenced in at Mohonk Mountain House. We do use deer repellents throughout the season as much as possible. We are trying to protect 30 plus acres of show gardens so not all of our material is protected. The above list may contain plant material that has been palatable to deer in other locations in New York State. Deer have a tendency to nibble on items that are unpalatable if they are located in their feeding area. High deer populations will influence the amount and species of plants eaten. If deer pressure is high and food is scarce they will eat almost anything. Protect new plantings with deer fencing. Rotate spraying of different repellents. Spray more often during the active growing season as plants will “grow out” of the repellent quickly.
